

MANN+HUMMEL:

Your reliable partner in air filtration for facility management

Part of what makes us the best air filtration partner for facilities management is our high product availability and fast delivery times. Part is the fact that we've spent decades working hand in hand with our FM partners - learning what makes them tick and helping them overcome the filtration challenges that they face.

Global reach

With more than 80 locations across six continents, we are truly global. So, no matter where opportunity takes you, we will be at hand to support you with in-stock products and fast deliveries.

Help in a hurry

We know that your customer relationships rely on delivering what you say you will. Downtime or disruption is inexcusable. When you have an urgent need, we'll be at hand to offer support, guidance and fast turnaround times.

The complete range

We know what it's like. It's a Friday and you open the air handling unit to reveal a filter with bizarre dimensions that you've never seen before. But it's likely that we have. And it's quite likely that we have it in stock, too.

Filters fast!

Air filters take up a surprising amount of space. Space you don't have on customer sites.

Our fast-delivery service means you can react quickly to emergencies or customer demand, without the need to hold vast stocks of filters.

R&D difference

Our track record of leadership in filtration is down to the hard work of our more than 1000 research and development experts. Their constant drive for the highest quality and most advanced products is what differentiates us.

Your trusted partner

We've been leading the way in filtration for over 80 years. You can count on that experience for dependable air filters and associated services that you really need. And you can pass on that expertise to your customers, too.
